

JETT TRIAL

Begins at Jackson Monday Says Judge Redwine.

Jurymen Will Not be Summoned From Breathitt County.

Last Night Was Quiet Compared With Events of Previous Night—The Guns And Troops Were Prepared for Instant Service.

(Advocate Telegram)

Jackson, Ky., May 29—It is persistently rumored today that mountaineers are gathering and will make a determined effort to capture the Jackson jail and release Jett and White. It is certain that the number of men in the city has largely increased within the past 24 hours and indications are that they have come with some definite purpose in view. Many of them are not allied with either side to the feud, but a large portion are Hargis feudists. Col. Williams believes that the situation is a critical one and has taken every possible precaution to insure the safety of the prisoners.

TRIAL ON MONDAY.

(Advocate Telegram)

Jackson, Ky., May 29—Judge Redwine convened court at 8:30 o'clock this morning with Curt Jett, Tom White and all the attorneys for the defense present. Jett and White were brought in by the soldiers and turned over to acting Sheriff Little. Judge Redwine announced that he would appoint a man in Little's place on Monday.

The attorneys for the defendants then submitted the names of 12 men from which they desired the selection made and the commonwealth submitted the names of nine men who would be satisfactory to it. Judge Redwine then asked if any further arguments were desired on questions entering into the trial. Attorney O'Neal of Covington, said he would like to go to Covington to attend a trial tomorrow.

Judge Redwine then announced that the trial of Jett and White will be called on Monday morning. The attorneys are now in consultation regarding county from which the jury is to be selected. The jurymen will not be summoned from Breathitt county.

There was an ominous quiet here last night as compared with the events of Wednesday night. About 8 o'clock a heavy rain began falling. The streets are unlighted and the darkness was intense. There was apprehension of a repetition of the troubles of the previous night, and the guards had been doubled. The Hotchkiss gun lay in readiness at the camp, in front of the officers tents and a squad of men was on hand ready to man it. The galling gun was in its customary place at the court house with a double guard about it. The jail detail was doubled. Not a man was astir after dark, excepting with a number of companions and the cry of the sentinels and corporals guard went echoing through the little village. There was some shooting down the river, and the boys feared there was going to be more "dynamiting fish" as the natives call it, but the night passed without mishap. The tents holding the special correspondents sent here to report the happenings held last night some young men with blanched faces. They could not get to the depot, a mile distant, after dark, without a military escort and this could not be had, owing to the depleted condition of the soldiers doing double guard duties. That they were badly frightened Wednesday night when the shooting occurred all admit and as long as they live they say they will not forget "the night of terror in Jackson."

FEAR

That Town Will Be Wiped Out

Causes Thousands to Get Out of City

SUPERSTITIOUS MEN REFUSE TO WORK ON SHIPS

BOUND SOUTH FROM MEMPHIS.

This is the Last Day Set by "Phophetess" for the Destruction of Pine Bluff, Ark.

Memphis, Tenn., May 29—Violent storms and heavy rains were in evidence all over this vicinity yesterday and had the effect of increasing the anxiety already displayed by thousands of superstitious black and white people who have followed the prophecy of the negress, Ellen Burkett Jefferson, who predicted that Pine Bluff, Ark., would be destroyed by a cyclone before midnight tonight.

Report from Pine Bluff is to the effect that about 6,000 colored men, women and children have deserted the city. The streets are almost bereft of negroes, and in hotels and restaurants many complaints are made by guests who cannot get waited on for lack of servants.

The number of insurance policies written in Pine Bluff and Little Rock since the negress predicted destruction for the city is said to be greater than the number written shortly after the St. Louis cyclone.

The Iron Mountain railroad has placed extra coaches on all departing trains, affording ample accommodations for those that wanted to get out. The effect of the prophecy has been felt in Memphis. Groups of negroes were seen standing about near the wharf all day discussing the forecasts of the prophetess in subdued tones.

The scare of the local colored population affects the steamboat men, as the roustabouts refused to work Wednesday. Another packet, loaded and ready to clear from her moorings, was compelled to wait for a crew to take her out. The negroes would not ship for love or money. The Lucille Nowland finally steered for the panic stricken city on the Arkansas river after having been delayed in Memphis for over 24 hours.

The vessel was in port all day trying to secure a crew. The negroes would not ship, and neither would they offer an excuse for not hiring. They refused to show any ambition when the mates began dickering for their hire. Money would not tempt them. They refused to admit that the prophecies of the crazed negress in Pine Bluff had caught to with their spurning of the proffered berths on the Pine Bluff packet, but the fright of the imaginary tornado which is to remove Pine Bluff from the map has really everything to do with the refusal of a place on the steamer which makes this port.

When the Lucille Nowland entered the Kansas river on her last trip many deckhands were on the point of leaving the boat the first landing. Some of them wanted to swim ashore.

Today is the day set for the calamity. The roustabouts on the steamer got the date mixed. They thought it was last Friday and but a few hours' time and more miles of river then separated them from the prophesied destruction.

It was only after much persuasion that the men consented to remain on the boat. They are told repeatedly that the time for the tornado was a week off, but all of them remembered the date, and when the vessel was ready to clear from the Memphis wharf on her return trip she was compelled to leave with a short crew.

The Vicksburg departure was delayed several hours by the refusal of the negroes to hire.

are hundreds of negroes in Memphis who believe the town is doomed.

Ellen Jefferson was taken to Little Rock from Pine Bluff, but a report circulated in Pine Bluff to the effect that she is not imprisoned in the insane asylum has increased the fears of the natives.

PROCLAMATION ISSUED.

Pine Bluff, Ark., May 29—Sheriff Gould has issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas, a great many residents of this city have fled, leaving their property with no one in charge to care for same, now, therefore, after consultation with the city authorities, I hereby proclaim that officers will patrol this city in the residence portion each night to protect property therein, and warning is hereby given that anyone found deprecating any property, or in any manner violating the law, will be summarily dealt with according to law."

FORGERY

As Well as Bribery Now Charged Against U. S. Postal Official—Another's Name is New Added to the List—Post Office Scandal.

Washington, May 29—Although there is no further startling disclosures in the Postoffice department scandal, Postmaster General Payne intimates that another development will soon be forthcoming. He says that a charge that George W. Beavers, of Brooklyn, N. Y., until recently the chief of the division of salaries and allowances, had profited by certain contracts while he was in office, is being investigated. The Postmaster General said the inspectors, who are working under the direction of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, are getting "hotter" in their search for evidence and it is an open secret at the department that the Postmaster General expects results along this line in a short time.

Mr. Beavers resigned his position about two months ago, just as the investigation began. Since then his office has been undergoing a very rigid investigation, and nearly ever contract which he entered into has been scrutinized with the greatest care. Upwards of $20,000,000 annually is appropriated for the maintenance of the salaries and allowances division, and opportunities for "graft" are numerous. Ever since his resignation Mr. Beavers has been under the surveillance of postoffice inspectors.

It is but fair to say in Mr. Beavers' behalf that, while allegations have been made against him with the department, thus far they have not been substantiated.

It is said to be possible that the intermediary who it is alleged, figured in the transactions which led to the arrest of Machen may turn state's evidence. His identity has not yet been disclosed. Mr. Machen's counsel has issued a statement asserting his ability to disprove all the charges. The Government is anxious to expedite the trial of Machen and is arranging to have its witnesses at Machen's preliminary hearing June 5. The preliminary hearing of the Groff brothers, the profits of whose firm Machen is accused of sharing on a forty per cent basis, has been set for June 9.

Postmaster General Payne was asked as to the nature of the charges on file against Beavers. He replied that they might be summed up as the payment of extravagant prices for materials. He said there was only one charge—that Mr. Beavers had received a commission on these supplies. This charge, he said, is under investigation.

The Salaries and Allowance division is now in charge of a former Assistant superintendent who is a veteran inspector. The investigation of the free delivery division has not been interrupted by the arrest of Machen. Postmaster General Payne today said that one of the charges under investigation was on allegation that Machen had forged the name of another man on an official paper about 10 years ago. He said that Machen knew of this charge and that Machen had said that he was ready at any time to bring proof that he was innocent of the transaction.

STRANGE CRIME

Committed by Russian Boy Who Killed a Woman For His Brother's Good and Then Hanged Him- self—Letter Written to Brother Before Act.

Berlin, May 28—News of a singular nature from Odessa, Russia, has reached here. Stefan Monvastyrska, owner of a large estate, met and loved a Vienna actress, singer, called herself Bar-gness Van Nagel and induced her to visit his estate. His brother, Alexis, 14 years old, strongly disapproved of this and repeatedly threatened to compel the baroness to leave the estate. One night Stefan went to Odessa and the next morning a servant notified him that the door of the baroness' room was locked. A rapping at the door was unanswered, so the police were summoned and it was opened forcibly and the corpse of the baroness was found on her bed. She had been strangled, and on her nose were the marks of teeth. From a leather strap attached to a hook in the wall hung the body of Alexis and on a table was a note reading as follows:

"The woman wanted me to share my brother's sin. May God pardon me for what I have done. Through this act I have ensured Stefan's welfare, and I beg him to erect a cross over my grave. The woman was strangled by my hands. May God have mercy upon me. It is half past two o'clock at night. Farewell Stefan. Fulfill the request of your unhappy brother who forcibly and the corpse of the baroness warmly loved you."

FATALLY CUT

BY DRUNKEN PASSENGER WHO IS AT LARGE

Conductor H. F. Peters Dying at the Zanesville Hospital—Assault in Coshocton County.
Zanesville, O., May 29—Conductor H. F. Peters of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad is dying at the Good Samaritan hospital in this city, from the effects of two lacerated wounds which he sustained in a fight with a drunken passenger at Conesville, Coshocton county, as the train from Cleveland passed through that place at 8 o'clock last night.
The name of the passenger is not yet known. He boarded the train at Coshocton, and from there to Conesville persisted in going from one car to another and pulling the whistle rope and otherwise annoying the trainmen.
At Conesville he refused to get off the train, and Conductor Peters attempted to forcibly eject him, when the fellow viciously slashed Peters in the abdomen and across the wrist with a knife. Peters' wounds, which were dressed by Dr. E. C. Bush, immediately upon the arrival of the train here at 10 o'clock, are considered almost necessarily fatal.
The knife blade penetrated the abdominal wall, and the slash across the wrist severed an artery and the tendons.
His assailant escaped at Conesville, and has not yet been arrested. He is supposed to be a miner.
It is said today that there is a chance of Mr. Peters recovering.

Confide in a Woman

Women may write about their ills to Mrs. Pinkham, and avoid the questioning of a male physician. They can tell their story without reservation to her; she never breaks a confidence, and her advice is the best in the world.

The questions asked of a woman by a male physician are embarrassing, and often revolting to a sensitive nature. In consequence the whole truth is not told; this makes it difficult for female troubles to be successfully treated even by the best physicians, and is the reason so many women grow worse rather than better. A woman understands a woman better than a man,—there are symptoms which sick women have that a man cannot understand, simply because he is a man, but the whole truth may be told to Mrs. Pinkham, and her vast experience enables her to give advice which leads to a cure.

All women who suffer should secure Mrs. Pinkham's advice; it costs nothing but a letter addressed to her at Lynn, Mass. Female troubles are real troubles, and must be treated understandingly. For a quarter of a century Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have been helping women to get strong and well, and her great file of letters prove that more than a million women have been restored to health and strength by her advice and her medicine when all other means have failed.

When you go to a druggist for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, do not let him persuade you to try something which he says is just as good; there is nothing just as good, because Mrs. Pinkham's medicine holds the record for the largest number of cures of any female medicine in the world.

COLUMBUS

Gas Companies Negotiating for Division of Territory and a Fixed Price for Fuel.

Columbus, O., May 29—Negotiations are now under way between the Federal Gas company and the Central Ohio National Gas and Fuel company for the acceptance of an agreement as to a division of territory and maintenance of prices. John O. Johnston, superintendent of the Central Ohio company, says that nothing would be accomplished until the legal end of the matter had been thoroughly canvassed.
Unofficial information is that the Federal company which is to be taken over by the Ohio Natural Gas company will supply gas to the entire West Side and the manufacturing institutions, while the Central Ohio company will have for its field the remainder of the city.
The Central Ohio company now furnishes gas at 20 cents net and the Federal at 15 cents net. These prices it is said, will be increased eventually to 25 cents per thousand.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How to Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.

Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this advertisement in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

There is a bare possibility that Republican "prosperity" will be called upon to vindicate itself. A badly disturbed money market would prove a severe test. Same men would that the contingency will not arise, yet there is a feeling of apprehension that late in the summer or early in the fall, when large sums of money will be required to move the crops, the country may have a money stringency.

Banker Herrick has passed middle life, yet the Republican politicians never suspected him of being such an embodiment of all human virtues until Hanna nominated him for Governor.

SENSIBLE TALK.
(Sandusky Star.)

Ex-Senator James K. Jones, who managed both the Bryan campaigns, says that it is his "belief that, to succeed, the Democrats must nominate a man who is acceptable to both factions of the party." In his opinion "Senator Arthur P. Gorman or Judge Alton B. Parker would do." He also says there is "no reason to believe why a platform should not be framed that would be acceptable to all genuine and earnest Democrats."

This is the right sort of talk for a man so prominent as Ex-Senator Jones to indulge in. There is absolutely no sense in shaking one's head and turning up one's nose every time the name of Bryan or Cleveland is mentioned. The thing to do is to name men who can, and would, command the support of both factions of the Democratic party and try to find common ground for a platform. If the Democratic party is ever to serve a national purpose again its two extreme wings must be brought into harmony and united upon a candidate and platform acceptable to both. It can be done, and if men like Jones who have been close to Bryan take the lead and show a conciliatory attitude, it will be done.

SMALL COMFORT FOR THE CLEVELAND BOOM IN OHIO.

(Columbus Citizen)

Comments of the Democratic press of Ohio on the possible candidacy of Mr. Cleveland for president in 1904 certainly do not indicate that the Cleveland boom can hope to receive much impetus in this section. The following is from the pen of J. H. Newton, the veteran editor of the Newark Advocate, and fairly represents the preponderance of sentiment on this subject as expressed by the Democratic press of this state.

[From the Advocate May 16.]
There has been little favorable response from the Ohio Democratic press to any of the recent talk about nominating Grover Cleveland for another Presidential term.

No level headed Democrat can think that Cleveland would be a logical candidate for the presidency in 1904. Cleveland has been Republican in his politics. He has been traitorous to the Democratic party which twice gave him the presidency. No party has done more for any man than has the Democratic party for Cleveland, and no man ever did so little in return for the party as Cleveland.

In fact, no man was ever elected to the presidency who did so much to wreck the party that trusted him as did Cleveland during his last term.

Every Democratic leader who attended the national convention in 1892, when Cleveland was nominated for the last time, knows how he violated every pledge that was made in his name and for him to secure that nomination, and they certainly know he is so unworthy of confidence that he cannot be trusted again.

Cleveland says he is not desirous of carrying the Democratic banner again, and perhaps he is not, but in any event the Democratic party is too wise to be led into another Cleveland trap to again be deceived and betrayed. The Democratic candidate for president in 1904 will not be Grover Cleveland.

This voice from the rock-ribbed Democracy of Licking county is by no means a single note. It has been echoed of late in all parts of this state. The present comment is perhaps the most significant, however, because it comes from the president of the Ohio Democratic Editorial association and is evidently intended to be taken into consideration with its semi-official character in view. It will be interesting to observe what further tendencies may become visible in this state in the matter of Mr. Cleveland's candidacy.

CRAZED

By the Jewish Massacre a Young Man at Indianapolis Has Lost His Mind.

(Advocate Telegram.)

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29—Crazed from worry over the massacre of Jews at Kishineff, Max Feldman, 28, is restrained at his home here. Two weeks ago Feldman received a letter from his mother, who with his father and one brother, lives two miles from the scene of the massacre. The details of the massacre given in the letter preyed on his mind, and he is now a victim of a hallucination that fanatics of the Greek church are after his life.

TRAGEDY

WAS ENACTED IN THE COURT AT TOLEDO.

Aged Johanna Sullivan Wielded Blows to Illustrate How Robbers Killed Her Sister, Kate.

Toledo, O., May 29—Johanna Sullivan, aged 73, gave her testimony in the trial of Ben Wade for the murder of Kate Sullivan, sister of the witness, three years ago. Miss Sullivan's testimony was full of dramatic interest, and the manner in which she gave it at times would have done honor to the greatest actor that ever trod the stage. Her manner of delivery held the breathless attention of Judge, jury and spectators.

Frequently she rose to her feet in the witness box and, in a tragic voice pointed out the prisoner as one of the three men who helped to kill her sister, and who so murderously assaulted her.

Looking straight into Ben Wade's eyes, and only a few feet away from him, Johanna Sullivan went through the gestures and motions of the men swinging the clubs and showing how they delivered the deadly blows.

With a short stick in her hands she showed how the men began the attack on her and her sister, and then, tearing up a piece of cloth into strips, she showed how the murderers gagged and tied the feet and hands of herself and her murdered sister Kate.

In a dramatic manner she told how two men, who, she says, were Al Wade and Ben Landis, burst through the door and into the house with clubs and, while Al Wade attacked her sister, Landis clubbed her (Johanna). She told how Kate was, worsting the big man, Al Wade, when the latter called for help, and the man on the outside also came in and attacked Kate with a club.

"And the other man came in the door," said the witness, repeating it, "and there he is," pointing her finger at Ben Wade, and the witness paused, while her blue eyes pierced into the very depths of Wade's optics. Eye met eye, and neither flinched; it was an awful ordeal of prisoner and witness in optical contest, as though trying to charm or hypnotize one another. She told how, while feigning death, she saw Ben Wade jam a cloth into her sister's mouth and ram it in with a stick, and of how he stabbed her in the neck three times with a knife.

Cross examination failed to shake her testimony in any vital particular.

WENT TO KENTUCKY.

Pretty Miss Freiner and Roy Dickinson Were Married After All--Girl Tried to Drown Herself Last Sunday Evening.

Pretty Miss Iva May Freiner, who on last Sunday evening jumped into the creek in an effort to drown herself because her father had denied her the pleasure of associating with her youthful lover, Roy Dickinson, boarded a train for Cincinnati at 2 o'clock this morning accompanied by Dickinson. Before leaving Newark they said it was their intention to go over the river into Kentucky at once, procure a license, be married and return home without delay.
As stated in Thursday's Advocate, Thursday afternoon John Roy Morrison appeared in Judge Walter A. Irvine's court here and applied for a marriage license, but as he was only 20 years old and his sweetheart 17, the court refused the license, as the necessary consent of the parents was not at hand. It develops that Morrison and Dickinson are the same person. The young man's name is Morrison, but he is known as Roy Dickinson, because he makes his home with his foster parents.
Last Sunday evening Morrison called upon Miss Freiner and the two started walking, but the girl's father, Albert Freiner, who is employed by the F. H. Blodgett company at Short Creek, W. Va., near Wheeling, objected and forcibly compelled his daughter to return to the house. Filled with mortification and chagrin, Miss Freiner promptly ran to the creek and jumped in, but was saved after she had gone down a second time.

Young Mr. Morrison, who left Newark about 2 o'clock Friday morning with Miss Freiner returned home with her as a bride Friday afternoon on B. & O. train No. 104. They went to Covington, were married by a justice of the peace and inside of an hour were on their way back to Newark.
Both looked radiantly happy as they stepped off the B. & O. train Friday afternoon. The bride and groom went at once to the Freiner home in East Newark, everything having been fixed up amicably by all parties concerned. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison will make their home there for the present.
Mrs. J. H. Dickinson, 57 Mill street told the Advocate Friday afternoon, that the bridegroom is her nephew but that he has been brought up as a son and has been known as Roy Dickinson. The young man is a painter by trade and has been employed at the Jewett Car works, the Everett Glass factory and other places about town.

DEATH FROM LAUDANUM.

Popular Glassblower Dies From Overdose but Family and Friends Scout the Suicide Theory--Stanley Rumsey is Dead.

A case of suicide was reported to Coroner C. F. Legge at 6 o'clock Friday morning, the victim being Stanley Rumsey, a popular blower at the Everett Glass works, whose home is on Leroy street, and whose death occurred midnight Thursday.
The Coroner investigated the death and found that Rumsey's wife as well as his friends scout the suicide theory and are of the opinion that the unfortunate man's death was caused by accidentally swallowing an overdose of laudanum.
About 8:20 o'clock Thursday night Rumsey went into Bob Dold's saloon on Oak street, and asked the bartender Leonard Stelzer for a glass of water. This was given him, and pouring half the contents of a small vial in the glass, he drank the mixture. After this he "chucked" a couple of games of dice, and in about 20 minutes he poured the balance of the vial's contents into some water and swallowed it.

He soon became "dopey," and John Coakley, a friend volunteered to go home with him. When in front of the Hudson avenue school building, Rumsey became helpless and Coakley went back to the saloon for more help. Rumsey was taken home and Dr. D. M. Smith was called, who worked with him for several hours to no avail, as the fatal dose had done its work.
For some time past Rumsey has been troubled with insomnia, and it is the general opinion of those who knew him, that he took the laudanum as a sleeping potion. The first dose did not seem to have the effect it should, so he swallowed the second and as it proved, the fatal draught.
The deceased was about 32 years of age and was a general favorite with the men of the factory, where he worked. He has no children.
The remains will be taken to Middletown, N. Y., the former home of the deceased, for interment.

MEMORIAL DAY

PROGRAM FOR THE OCCASION IN NEWARK.

Graves Decorated in the Morning and Address at Memorial Auditorium in the Afternoon.

Last night the general committee, representing the various patriotic and military organizations of the city met and completed arrangements for the proper observance of the day.
The following resolution was unanimously adopted:
We, the representatives of both local and national military organizations respectfully call the attention of all patriotic and over-loving citizens of Newark to the proper observance of our national Sabbath of American patriotism, Memorial, commonly called Decoration Day." To every true and loyal American this is not a holiday but a holy day.
We call upon our citizens to unite with us in our public service not only in commemoration of the nation's heroic dead, but that with the spirit of the day we assemble ourselves, as is now the universal custom, to reconsecrate ourselves to the principles of good and safe government for which these Christian men and women gave their lives.
We call attention to the growing sentiment against the unhallowed use of this day and its desecration by indulgence in sports and games contrary to its spirit and intent.

We submit the report of Past Department Commander Walton Weber read at Marietta, May 13th, 1903. "Let us by word and act continually agitate a more strict observance of the purpose for which the day was instituted; let us by example teach our children that it may pass to their children, that it is not a second Fourth of July—that while the Fourth of July is a day for celebrating the emancipation of a country from a detested monarchy, Memorial day is set apart for revering the memory of emancipated souls; souls that through fire and sword, struggle, suffering from wounds and disease, dying on field, in camp, in prison pen, in hospital or at home, for their country won for themselves an heritage in the heavens above."
The following program will be observed:
Squad of Police.
Chief Marshal Russ Moore and mounted staff, consisting of Samuel Hupp, M. D. Farmer and Major Elmer Blizard.
Orator of the day, Hon. John L. Locke. Chaplain of the day Rev. J. C. Schindel and reader of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech, Judge W. A. Irvine, in carriages.
Company G, 4th O. N. G. Music.
At 8 o'clock Capt. John Hiser and squad will move to Mt. Calvary cemetery and decorate the graves there.

DYING BOY GIVES DOCTOR SURPRISE

New York, May 29—While members of his family were hurrying to what they supposed to be his death bed and physicians were discussing the remote chance of saving his life by a severe operation, John Patterson, 16 years old who had been in a state of profound coma for two days, suddenly sat bolt upright and yawned.
"Gee, but I had a good time," said the youth, to the amazed doctors, "but I got an awful head." A little bromide seltzer "I straightened me up, though." With that the boy who had a few minutes before been gasping up as hopeless, jumped out of his bed and called for his clothes.
Patterson was found unconscious in the streets Wednesday. He was taken to the hospital where a careful examination was made and the conclusion reached that his skull was fractured.
The police, at once, arrested his assailant, Richard Lambert, 24 years old, of this city. Lambert was held when the court learned that the boy was expected to die at any moment.
Yesterday the doctors sent word to his family that young Patterson was dying and they carefully prepared to mourn for his loss. They found him skipping around like a young colt.
Lambert has been discharged.
One London furrier has asked for 300,000 moleskins from Lincolnshire.

NINE THOUSAND

Applicants for Two Hundred Positions as Teachers in the Philippines. Few Resigned.

(Advocate Telegram.)
Washington, May 29—Nine thousand applicants will contest for 200 places as teachers in the Philippine schools before June 1. One half that number will be chosen from Americans in the islands and the others from the United States. It was reported that many new teachers would tender their resignations at the close of this term but only 73 resigned. Twenty-five returned to the States on their vacation and 300 are in China and Japan, while about 350 remained in Manila.

KENTUCKY

Will Fall in Line and Pass a Resolution Indorsing the Candidacy of Roosevelt.

(Advocate Telegram.)
Washington, May 29—Kentucky is preparing to fall into line in pledging support to Roosevelt's re-nomination. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, John W. Yerkes, who is the National Republican Committeeman from that state said today: "The Kentucky Republican convention will meet in July. A resolution to endorse the candidacy of President Roosevelt will be offered and I am sure it will be adopted."

HEAD ALDERMAN DEMANDED A BRIBE

Chicago, May 29—The grand jury yesterday took up the charges of bribery made against Alderman Edward Novak by broker George T. Sullivan. Evidence corroborating the testimony given by Sullivan was heard by the inquisitors. Manley and Armstrong, two of Sullivan's employees, appeared before the jury.
They swore that they had heard the Tenth ward councilman demand $1500 cash from Sullivan, with monthly payments of $200 for "protection" from the police.
The witnesses told the grand jury that Alderman Novak seemed to be very familiar with all plans of the contemplated raid by Patrolman Woolbridge.
Novak said the place was to be raided and that for $1500 down and $200 a month he would call off the police and guarantee Sullivan protection, stated one of the witnesses. The witness described the Alderman in order that there might be no mistake as to his identity.

Bellefontaine, O., May 29—The annual conference of the German Baptist Brethren more familiarly known as Dunkards opened here today and will continue until June 1. Delegates are present from every state and territory in the union and it is estimated that on Sunday, which will be one of the big days of the conference there will be 50,000 visitors in the city. Among other matters to settle is the question whether a man can use tobacco and remain an officer of the church.
It is said that where one boy smoked occasionally ten years ago 500 smoked regularly today.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Has Again and Again Cured After Physicians Have Failed.

For years, men and women in every rank and walk of life have been sounding the praises of Paine's Celery Compound, and telling of its victories over disease and death. Those who were most heavily burdened with disease, victims of suffering pronounced incurable by doctors, and who stood on the brink of the grave, are the people who most gratefully remember Professor Phelps, of Dartmouth College, the eminent physician and scientist who discovered Paine's Celery Compound, the medicine that never fails to conquer blood diseases, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles. Mr. F. Marion Sikes of Crony, N. C., happily rescued from a complication of dangerous ailments, long standing dyspepsia, muscular pains and after results of typhoid fever—nervousness—weakness, watery blood and sluggish circulation, gratefully and thankfully writes for the benefit of thousands of men and women who suffer today. Mr. Sikes writes: "For many years I suffered with dyspepsia. All that I ate did me no good and I could find nothing that would give me relief. Last year I was taken with a pain in my leg that ran from my hip to the end of my toes. I had as good a doctor as I could find in Wilmington, but he only gave me relief for a while. I was then taken with typhoid fever and my family and friends had given up all hope. A friend of mine, Captain Walter Taft, advised me to try Paine's Celery Compound as I was so nervous I could not stand alone. I began the use of the wonderful medicine and before I had taken half a bottle I felt like a new man. I have now used two bottles and am today a well man and feel better than I have for ten years. I thank my God for the use of this great and marvelous compound."

MEMORIAL

EXERCISES IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS
THIS MORNING.

Synopsis of the Address Delivered at the High School by the Rev. B. M. O'Boylan.

As has been the custom for several years past Memorial Day exercises were held in all the public schools of the city this morning. The exercises were of a very interesting nature and consisted of patriotic songs and addresses. Following is a brief synopsis of the excellent address delivered by the Rev. Father B. M. O'Boylan at the High School:

My Young Friends—Our Truant Officer, whom you know to be the very apotheosis of strenuousness, summoned me on Thursday evening to be present in your High School chapel to tell you what I know about patriotism. One would have thought that he was after a convict, who had tried to escape to Canada or Timbuctoo, or one of those anarchists against whom the detectives of the various states are said to be guarding the President in the course of his travels and hunting expeditions over the land. But I knew otherwise. Mr. Jones is as true to his country as his friend Paul, and there was nothing left for me to do but obey his summons and appear before you to answer the charge of Patriotism. Like myself Mr. Jones is not a citizen by the necessity or the accident of birth, but became one by his free will. He is a citizen of freedom, having deliberately taken the oath of allegiance to the land of his adoption, and as such, his duty, obligations and patriotism stand upon a more definite and rational position than even the Nation's. The naturalized citizen may not become the President, but he has sworn obedience to him and all that the constitution of the United States stands for, and in this he becomes at once the peer of the best and the pillar of authority without which there can be neither law, nor order nor true liberty. In looking at this country both from a natural and constitutional standpoint we behold all the features of a nation that should command the reverence of a citizen and arouse the sentiments of a patriot. Her glorious expanse of territory from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the gulf to the great lakes, and northwestward along the coast of Alaska; her sweeping rivers and vast inland seas; her towering mountains, bounding uplands, rolling plains and prairies; her mighty canyons and ravines; her cataracts and geysers; her wonderland in the matchless National Park; her trackless forests and shady groves and pleasant dells; her variety of climate suitable to every constitution, as well as many other endowments of nature, make our country at once the most varied as well as the most fascinating land to the heart and mind of her children, while her unrivalled constitution proclaims that it was not merely the work of minds impregnated with great thoughts for the welfare of her people, but was little less than a revelation of the Creator for the social happiness of man.

Why should not Patriotism be one of the strongest, if not the dominating virtue in the souls of citizens of such a country? The church has always taught that love of country was not only a duty but also a virtue. It is this that makes the quiet and gentle nature rise to the highest pitch of courage, spurn all sordid motives, forget the fear of death and even the love of all that is sacred in his home when his country is in danger. It is not in the mad and reckless fury of passion and sentimentality nor in the vain applause of the silly mob that true Patriotism has its source; but it rests in the natural love that knits his soul to the very soil, as well as in the deep moral sense of his sacred obligations to the flag of his country—the emblem of her life, her liberty and sacred authority. All true liberty must be achieved by the spirit of God—for as the Eagle, the New Testament says, "Where the spirit of God is there is liberty."

We want none of that which is now disgracing France and Russia and Turkey. No, we want liberty with proper restraint; liberty with the freedom of the children of God; liberty with a free and safe conscience; we want this as broad and beautiful and glorious as the national features of our country, with a constitution as strong in justice and truth and mercy as the Rockies, and as chaste and heavenly as the stars that blazon our skies. Rejoicing in the possession of all this, the patriotism of our country must ever be of the highest type, and from our schools and colleges where such lessons are taught must come forth the men and women in whose hearts and hands our liberties shall forever be dependent, protected and perpetuated. As models of the true patriot in the church and state he instanced above all George Washington and his friend, Bishop John Carroll. These were the models in the primitive period of this Republic, and Lincoln and John Hughes in the day when the life of this Republic was threatened by dismemberment. Father O'Boylan's talk lasted about an hour and at the close he was enthusiastically applauded.

NERVOUS HEADACHE BREEDS INSANITY.

Many a person's whole pleasure in life is ruined by the fear of nervous headaches. Any little excitement, no matter what, business or social, brings them on. The feet and hands grow cold, the head is hot, the eyes stiff, the temples throb, and only in the quiet of a darkened room is relief obtained. This condition must be checked or it means complete mental ruin. To those people Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills come as a blessing. They do not stop, they cure the headaches. They do not blanket, they build up. They put the nervous system in a strong, vigorous condition—a condition that gives one resistive power and enables them to again enjoy life's pleasures. Mrs. B. Bollwinc of the Travelers Hotel, Corner Second and Canal Sts., Newark, Ohio, says:—"Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are what they claim to be, a good nerve tonic. I was induced to use them as a cure for nervousness, restlessness, nervous sick headaches and depression. The box I got at Bricker's City Drug Store worked well in each instance and cured the trouble. I feel well and right again and can recommend them highly as thoroughly reliable." 50 cents a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. # The General's Orders

By HOWARD FIELDING

(Copyright, 1903, by C. W. Hooke.)

FRANK CUSHING stood by the iron fence which surrounded the family plot in the cemetery of his native town. A brisk, warm wind caught up the fragrance from the flowers upon his father's grave and rustled in the folds of the flag that flew from a short staff planted before the headstone.

The scene was impressive; its vitality gave life to death. On rising ground, opposite Cushing's position, a great choir of girls and young women were taking their places. Along the path came General Parker, Denham's war hero, and his little staff of veterans. They saluted the flag and passed on.

Instantly Cushing's mind, which had been the abode of thoughts appropriate to the occasion, was occupied by his own personal concerns. General Parker had not looked at him.

The general's disfavor was not a new affliction. For a year it had been the heaviest burden and the darkest mystery of Cushing's life. He was in love with the general's daughter, Dorothy, and he had claims to be favorably considered. In this mercenary world the fact that at thirty years of age he was president of the Denham bank and the richest man in those parts should count for something. Moreover, the general had been a warm friend of the older Cushing, whom he always spoke of as "a grand soldier, sir; the ideal of a soldier," though he had been only Sergeant Cushing at the close of the war.

It was well known that General Parker judged men by their fitness or unfitness for a military life. As to the general's disfavor, it could hardly rest upon the absence of soldierly virtues in a civilian, but all that Cushing knew about it was that the general had said a year ago: "Frank, your attentions to Dorothy are becoming conspicuous. They must cease."

They had not ceased, but Cushing vainly imagined that they had not been conspicuous. He would have liked to ask Dorothy whether the fact that he had gone walking with her for about half an hour on the previous evening could account for her father's added displeasure, but Dorothy stood with the girls who were to sing, and to speak with her then would have been conspicuous indeed, for Cushing was not only a personage in Denham; he was also very tall, and Dorothy was above the average height, and her blond beauty was not of a quiet type. A conversation between them then would have attracted the eyes of the whole town.

It was probable that no opportunity would occur during the day, but one might be made in the course of an entertainment which was to be given in the evening, and to that Cushing looked forward. Accordingly, about half past 8 o'clock he toiled up the narrow and crooked stairs leading to old Army hall, where the entertainment was to be held. The stairs led from a side entrance to a vestibule, which was on the front of the third story of the big wooden building. Cushing, pausing at the door, beheld the hall extraordinarily crowded. He caught a glimpse of Dorothy's golden crown in the far distance and instantly afterward met the cold, gray eyes of the general, who stood just within the portal.

Cushing turned away and looked out of the window in the end of the vestibule. Directly across the narrow street was the Redding block, an old wooden structure much like Army hall. In the second story windows of this building he saw a strange light that wavered, flashed and brightened. He gazed at it, terror-stricken.

With his mind's eye Cushing beheld every incident of the wild stampede from this crowded hall that must follow the inevitable cry of "Fire!" He staggered the length of the vestibule and came face to face with General Parker.

"General, the Redding block is on fire!" he whispered.

The old officer straightened up until he was as erect as a youth. He marched to the window, glanced out and then returned to his former position.

A double door separated the vestibule from the hall. Only half of it was open; the other half was fastened by movable bolts running up into the ceiling and down into the floor. Cushing stooped to loosen the lower bolt.

"Don't do that," said the general calmly in his ear. "Pretend that it's stuck and stand by it. Don't let anybody get it open."

Cushing put his foot on the bolt and stared at the general. Did he intend to quell a panic by shutting the people into the hall?

"Ladies and gentlemen," the general began. And at the sound of his resonant and commanding voice the hall became quiet.

"Then in that very moment of silence arose the wild cry of fire in the street. The rush was instantaneous. Cushing felt the shock as the crowd struck the closed part of the door. He thought it must break; but men built honestly in the old days.

"Open this door! Open this door!" screamed fifty voices.

Cushing, faint with panic, bent down to the bolt, but the general's words still rang in his ears. Frantically he held the bolt down, as if it could have jumped out of the socket without assistance. Nobody within could reach it, and those that came out could find their way else to think about. A few men turned back, but Cushing pushed them away.

It takes a long time for 500 people to get through a space four feet wide, especially when they are in too much of a hurry. There was a terrible jam at the door, but the general and some of his old comrades maintained their positions against the wall between the door and the near corner and managed to accomplish something in straightening out the tangle. Occasionally one of the old soldiers would be caught in the vortex and would come through, gasping with such breathy gas as remained in his body: "Steady, steady, boys! Plenty of time!" Then he would be swept on down the stairs.

The building opposite was flaring like a giant torch. Suddenly a gust of wind caught the flame and thrashed it across the street as if it had been a whip of fire. It struck the side of Army hall with a crash, bursting the glass in the window of the vestibule and letting in a torrent of heat.

The people at the head of the stairs screamed and rushed down faster. A man turned to Cushing, crying, "For heaven's sake, pull that bolt!"

"It won't come," stammered Cushing. "I'm a coward," he was saying to himself. "I'm afraid right now. I want to run, though blast me if I know why. That's what the general has seen in me all along."

It was constantly in Cushing's mind that he ought to be at Dorothy's side. Of course it was utterly impossible for him to enter the hall against the tide of humanity. He must simply wait for her, but he resolved to desert his post when she appeared and protect her down the stairs.

Suddenly he was aware of her. She had tried to stop by her father's side. The struggle to extricate herself had turned her about, and she was thrust through the doorway backward. As soon as it was passed the pressure of the crowd relaxed, owing to the width of the vestibule. Relieved of this support, the girl fell helplessly at the foot of the stairway that led upward to the loft.

Cushing forced his way across to where she had fallen and raised her in his arms. Instantly he was aware of the general just beyond the door. His voice was clear above the noise of the crowd, the roar of the fire and the incessant beating of the water which an engine was now throwing upon the face of the building.

"Carry her upstairs!" he cried.

"Upstairs? The word came to Cushing as in a dream. He knew that the building was already afire, and to go higher up in it was to invite death.

CUSHING CLASPED DOROTHY IN HIS ARMS AND FLED UPSTAIRS.

Yet under this feeling was his conviction that the general meant what he said; that he was cool in the midst of this excitement, with a tried soldier's courage. Cushing was not cool, and he knew it. His judgment at the moment was not worth a penny, and he had the sense to perceive this fact. He clasped Dorothy in his arms and fled up the stairs.

To his great surprise, a great number of people followed him. Nearly half of those remaining in the hall were deflected and took the stairs that led higher.

The general overtook Cushing in the loft above and led the way to the rear where there was a small window. Everybody else had forgotten it. It opened just over the flat roof of another building, and upon this occasion it furnished a very easy exit for about fifty people.

Dorothy revived even before Cushing had carried her to the window, and she descended through the other building without assistance. She and her father and Cushing were the last to emerge.

No sooner had Cushing's feet touched the sidewalk than he was recognized and surrounded. It seemed that dozens of hands were extended toward him.

"By George, sir," cried some one, "that was magnificent! Talk about presence of mind! If you had opened the other half of that door and let loose that flood of people on that narrow, crooked stairway, there'd have been a hundred killed. And as it is, there's nobody hurt."

"I?" gasped Cushing. "Presence of mind! I was scared silly. I haven't found out yet what I was about. It was the general's orders."

He turned toward Parker, who extended his hand.

"Frank," said he, "I've misjudged you. You're your father's son. You have the making of a fine soldier in you."

"Soldier!" echoed Cushing, with a bitter and choking laugh. "I guess not! I've found out tonight what I am."

"That's first requisite of a soldier," said the general, "and the most important element of human character is obedience. If you had obeyed my order a year ago—but never mind that. Tonight has made all right. When you discovered the fire, you reported it, and from that moment you carried out every order to the letter. If you were nervous, sir, it only makes your conduct more honorable. I could not have held that door myself. Nobody but you would obey my order to go upstairs. I had bawled myself hoarse. But when you led, the others followed, and pressure on the lower stairs was relieved at the most critical moment."

"I may have deserved a little credit," Cushing began, "for grabbing Dorothy up from under all those feet!"

"That showed intelligence," responded the general, smiling. "It is a minor consideration. Many men have intelligence, but few have the instinct of discipline. He who has it is a safe man, a man to be trusted. And now I must see if I can be of any assistance with this fire. You will take Dorothy home."

"Yes, sir," said Cushing promptly.

Blood Corpuscles.

The war between the white corpuscles of the blood and the microbes of disease was first described by the Russian pathologist, Metchnikoff. While devoting himself to the study of inflammations he in each case noted the presence of white cells in the blood currents in abnormal numbers. Inside these white cells he invariably found the specific microbes of the disease under consideration. It seemed that the big corpuscles were devouring the poisonous microbes. Sometimes the number taken up by a corpuscle was too great, and it died as a result. If this overcoming of the white corpuscles by the microbes was general the patient died.

CRUSHES OUT THE LIFE

The most loathsome and repulsive of all living things is the serpent, and the vilest and most degrading of all human diseases is Contagious Blood Poison. The serpent sinks its fangs into the flesh and almost instantly the poison passes through the entire body. Contagious Blood Poison, beginning with a little ulcer, soon contaminates every drop of blood and spreads throughout the whole system. Painful swellings appear in the groins, a red rash and copper colored spots break out on the body, the mouth and throat become ulcerated, and the hair and eye brows fall out; but these symptoms are mild compared to the wretchedness and suffering that come in the latter stages of the disease when it attacks the bones and more vital parts of the body. It is then that Contagious Blood Poison is seen in all its hideousness. The deep eating abscesses and sickening ulcers and tumors show the whole system is corrupted and poisoned, and unless relief comes soon this serpent disease tightens its coils and crushes out the life. The only antidote for the awful virus is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy, composed entirely of vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. destroys every vestige of the poison, purifies the blood and removes all danger of transmitting the awful taint to others. Nothing else will do this. Strong mineral remedies, like mercury and potash, dry up the sores and drive in the disease, but do not cure permanently. Send for our home treatment book and write us if in need of medical advice or special information. This will cost you nothing.

There will probably be a record breaking crowd at the Y. M. C. A. grounds Saturday afternoon to witness the two baseball games to be played there for one price of admission.

The alumni of Delaware and Kenyon who reside in Newark, have arranged to meet the teams upon their arrival in the city, and before lunch will take them in trolley's to Idlewild Park the State Camp Grounds and other points of interest. The game between these two college teams will be hard fought and exciting as much depends upon the result to each team. U. will be called at 3:30.

At 1:30 the game between the Y. M. C. A. team and the Zanesville All Stars will be called. Call for Them. All Druggists.

The showing of the men was eminently satisfactory and Newark lovers of baseball may be assured this season of a fast team.

The men fielded accurately and each man also indulged in batting practice. C. W. Cubison, third baseman, has been selected captain of the team, and has begun to practice the finer points of the team work which he says will be in evidence in the work of the Newark team. He is a fast fielder and stands well at the plate himself and he will see that the men under him do likewise. Ferguson at second base handles himself well and is as quick as a flash in getting "the ball away to first base. Cole, Taylor, Hildebrand, Buchanan, Miller and others made circus steps and sensational catches, while the pitchers warmed up and took the knut's out of their arms.

The team looks well trained and their work against Zanesville probably the strongest team in Ohio outside the big leagues. Saturday afternoon at Cambridge will be watched with interest.

How Denison Lost at Chicago.

The Chicago papers all praise the fine work of the Denison baseball team against Stagg's famous university of Chicago players. The Chronicle tells how Denison nearly won the game as follows:

"The University of Chicago nine was given a bad scare yesterday afternoon on Marshall field by a fast, snappy team of ball tossers from Denison college, down in Ohio. The buckeye men played the game from the very first, jumped into the lead in the fifth inning and wound up with a ninth-inning rally that made the finish a hair-raiser.

They came to bat in the last session two runs to the bad. Chamberlain dropped a Texas leaguer back of second. Swing out a slashing single past Kelly and then Baird fumbled Philpot's little grounder and the bags were full and no one out. After Griffith fouled out, Scott hit to Baird and died at first. Shamber scoring. Roubush popped a hot one toward Bazdek. The scrappy second baseman stopped it, fumbled an instant and then shot the ball to Patrick in the nick of time, closing the game as two more Denison runners were racing for home and victory. It was a narrow squeak for Chicago. Both twirlers were steady and Roubush was the star in fielding stunts.

The Record-Herald says of Denison's great ninth-inning rally:

"In the ninth inning Dr. F. W. Shamber, an secretary of the University of Chicago, and his little band of former Denisonians, waved their red and black flags with enthusiasm. Hits by Chambers and Swing and a grounder fumbled by Baird put three men on bases. Chambers scored. One hit would have tied the score, but Roubush was retired for the final out."

Irish Lad Wins Brooklyn.

Brooklyn, May 29.—Irish Lad, owned by Harry Payne Whitney and H. B. Duryea, trained by Rogers and ridden by O'Neil, won the seventeenth Brooklyn Handicap in 2:05 2-5, a record for the race.

Gunfire, owned by William C. Whitney, trained by Rogers and ridden by Burns, ran second. Heno, owned by W. S. Fanshawe, trained by Lakeland and ridden by Michaels, was third.

Against the winner odds of 12 to 1 were quoted. Gunfire was the popular favorite in the race, being held at 11 to 5, while as good as even money was laid against the filly's chances of running as far forward as second. Heno went begging in the betting ring, where odds of 15 to 1 were laid that he would not win.

There were 12 starters. The track was in splendid condition. About 25,000 saw the race. To the owners of the winner went $15,150, $2,000 of the second and $1,000 to the third. The distance was one mile and a quarter. The best previous record for the race was 2:05 1-4, made by Banaster three years ago. The record for the track held by Gold Heels since last October, was equalled.

Oberlin Won Field Meet.

Cleveland, O., May 29.—About 4,000 people Thursday saw the Oberlin track and field team win the championship in the Big Six intercollegiate meet at the Cleveland Driving Park. When the fifteen events had been completed Oberlin was first with 70 2-3 points, Cas second with 19 1-3 O. S. U. third with 28. Reserve having 10. Kenyon 1 and O. W. U. 2.

The only record of Central Western colleges that was broken was the half mile run, which was made by Hogan of O. S. U. in 1:55 2-5, which is 1/5 of 2-5 lower than made by Palmer, of Iowa, in 1895.

The cost of railways has been calculated at about $3 per inch and $195,000 every mile. It is also said that British railways are three times as costly as those in America.
